Summary

Software architect, Full-stack dev, MERN stack specialist.

Expert in Docker, Kubernetes, Microservices & Cloud-based deployment.

Unit-testing, CI/CD & all DevOps aspects are essentials to me.

Creator of RepresentJS: https://github.com/alma3lol/representjs

I train devs, rewrite legacy code to meet modern demands, ensure quality in code using TDD and design patterns.

Professional team player, strong analytical, problem solving, excellent communication skills, team leader.

Kind of a perfectionist, but pragmatic enough to know when it's done.

Stuff I use:
- MySQL, SQLite, MongoDB, Firebase, MSSQL, Neo4j.
- Laravel, NodeJS, ExpressJS, LoopBack 4.
- React, Redux, Vue, Vuex, Sass.
- Java (incl: Android).
- SOLID principles, Concept of Web Components, Clean-code, Functional Reactive Programming, TDD.
- Git/Git-flow.
- MVC, MVI, MVVM architectures.
- UX/UI, Responsive design.
- GOF design patterns (Singleton, Facade, Mediator, ...etc).
- Agile's methodologies, Scrum.

Education

Kingston English Acadimy

Acadimic student, English

2015 - 2015

I've been taught on the hands of one of the best teachers that I ever had, Mrs.Nadiye Celik. She's an excellent teacher, she taught me that the first thing to learn a language is to read a lot. "The more you read, the more you speak and write" she said. She always said that, but I had a different opinion. "The more you listen to the language being spoken, the more you'll be able to read, write and speak". And she agreed on that, so she decided to start making debates in the class room and in activities, and here I am. The more I listened the more my English improved.
